1980, fifth year of study into effects of Acid Rain

The Acidic Precipitation in Ontario Study (AP-OS) being conducted on 15 lakes in the Muskoka-Haliburton region is entering its fifth year.

The study has been guaranteed government funding for the next two years according to Ron Reid, a scientist with the Water Resources Branch of the Ministry of Environment.

The year round study covers lakes within a fifteen mile radius of the laboratory near Dorset. Eight to ten students from five universities around the province will assist the half dozen full time scientists in analyzing water samples this summer.

The lab was set up in 1976 by the Ministry of Housing to monitor the chemistry of lakes in this region. "In the course of that study acid rain became noticeable," said Reid.

This summer the scientists will be examining three aspects of water systems: 1) Streams flowing into the lake. 2) The precipitation falling directly into the lake. 3) the lake itself.

Although the lab does not look at fish population or the effects of acid rain on the fish it does examine the microscopic plant and animal life that form the basis for the food chain in the lakes and rivers. Private consulting groups such as the one headed by Harold Harvey of the University of Toronto will be keeping an eye on the fisheries this summer.

MP Bill Scott speaks out on Liberals' lack of policy

Victoria-Haliburton MP, Bill Scott, addressed the House of Commons on June 3rd, and had some strong criticism to make about a Bill the Federal government is trying to pass. He also came out in favor of the government helping the small businesspersons, and was strongly critical of the Liberal government's lack of a national energy policy.

Bill C-30, is before the House, and it infuriates Scott. This Bill would give the federal government the authority to borrow up to $12 billion before April 1, 1981. It could be used for "public works and general purposes." The Bill would also give the government the authority to borrow the money from a source that is not Canadian.

Mr. Scott is opposed to this Bill being passed because it would increase our national deficit, and would, in Scott's words, "plunge us $12 billion deeper into debt before we even know how the government plans to spend the money."

Scott is concerned that if we borrow the money from sources, our debt would be much larger than $12 billion. Scott says if we borrowed from the United States, the premium on the American dollar is 15%. Scott says that coupled with high interest rates, it could be "an expensive proposition."

In speaking of small businesses, Scott said that although they provide approximately 60% of all jobs held in Canada, they are the least protected and most vulnerable segment of our economy.

NEW SENIORS PROGRAM

"Wheels to Meals" has started in Haliburton County for Srs.

Under the sponsorship of the Haliburton County Home Support Services a delightful buffet dinner was held at noon, Tuesday, June 10th at Sunny Rock Lodge, overlooking the beautiful waterfall at Scotts Dam, for senior citizens of Gelert, Ingoldsby, Lochlin, and Donald.

Scott is concerned about the plight of the small businessmen, because he said when the interest rates soar, small businesses are the first to suffer. He gave the example of earlier this year when interest rates were up to 17 or 18% and borrowing money at the high rates was sometimes greater than the profit margin for the small businessman.

Scott believes the government should initiate some legislation to protect the small business community. Bill Scott complained that the Liberal government does not have a definite national energy policy yet. He also said that his government was given a vote of non-confidence because of the proposal to raise the price of gas by 18¢ a gallon, in the budget. Liberals were against the 18¢ a gallon uprise. Trudeau said "I am a family man, I drive a car and don't want to have to pay another 18¢ a gallon." Yet if you look at the Liberal party now, well they are doing practically the same thing as the Tory's suggested to do in their budget.

"Wheels to meals" is a new concept of seniors helping seniors, those having transportation helping to accommodate those needing a drive to the luncheon. This enables many who otherwise would not have an opportunity to socialize with their friends and neighbours to do so well as enjoy a meal together.

Our hosts were Lorna and Barrie Shaw, new owners of the Sunny Rock Lodge, who extended to us a most gracious and friendly welcome.

Convenors of the Wheels to Meals program are Mrs. Bessie Burk and Mrs. Gladys Reid and we thank them for their help in arranging details.

The Wheels to meals program will continue and anyone wishing to know more about the service may call our convenors or the office of the Haliburton County Home Support Service in the Municipal Building in Haliburton at 457-2941.

HHSS Track and Field Star

MINDEN — Mike Hatkoski, a first year Junior Track & Field athlete at Haliburton Highlands Senior Secondary, went all the way to the Ontario Track and Field championships held at Etobicoke's Centennial Stadium recently, where he finished in the top half of a field of 24 competitors in the Javelin. Mike started out the season by taking five firsts at the HHSS track meet, winning the Javelin, pole vault, triple jump, long jump and 110 metre hurdles. He then competed at Kawartha West and took three firsts, javelin, pole vault and long jump. From here, Mike qualified for the Kawartha Finals and captured firsts in the javelin and pole vault. This put Mike in the Central Ontario or COSSA championships where he once again finished first in his two specialties. This got him to the Eastern Ontario championships in Trenton where he finished fifth in the javelin and qualified for the All-Ontario. Being just a first year junior at Haliburton, it appears Mike has a great future in track and field and should bring home an All-Ontario championship before he graduates.

Old 6060 gone due to lack of interest in Ontario

Appearing before the Ontario Task force on Provincial Rail Policy, Peter Oehm, President of the Upper Canada Rail Society the Committee that Canadian National Railways has given the last operational steam engine in Southern Ontario to the Government of Alberta.

Engine "6060", a favorite with Ontario steam buffs, will be put on display in Western Canada later this year.

The loss of "6060" is only one of the problems facing excursion train enthusiasts. Cost escalation as much as 400% since 1972 — along with the banning of excursion trains on lines that do not carry regular passenger service, and a general lack of interest by the railways were all cited by Oehm as road blocks to the society's programs.

"The demand for excursion trains is still high in fact on many occasions we could sell three times the available tickets for our day-long outings," said Oehm.

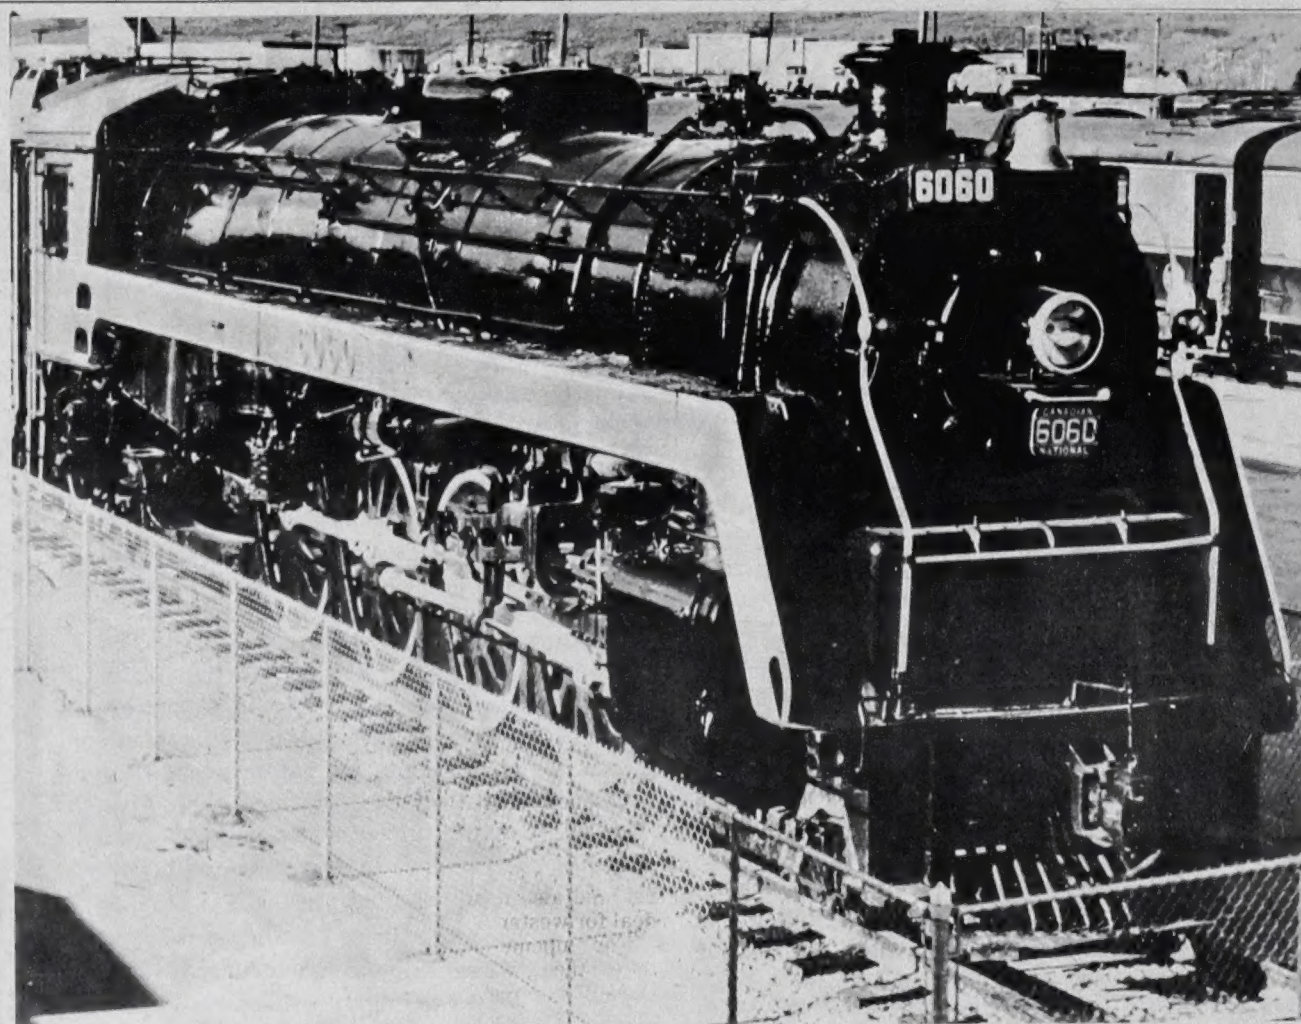

Besides running excursions, the Upper Canada Rail Society works towards the preservation of stations and rail lines in Ontario.

At the same meeting Vern McKinnon, Director, Tourism Ontario indicated that today better than 95% of Ontario tourists travel by car, but the day may not be far off when driving an automobile on vacation could be socially unacceptable.

"When this day arrives, Ontario tourism industry will be in severe trouble unless an alternate method of moving people to and from the Province is in place and being used," he indicated.

During the 1980's Ontario's tourism revenue will be in the order of 121 billion dollars. This income will produce over 21 billion dollars of tax revenue for the Province during the decade.

"Tourism is dependent on moving people from one place to another, and I see rising fuel costs and shortage making intermodality, with passenger train service as the core, as a necessity if we hope to maintain a healthy industry," McKinnon continued.

"Tourism will be Ontario's single most important industry by the year 2000. If I operated a railway

I would start marketing today to ensure I was part of the scheme to move people quickly, efficiently and economically within the Province," he concluded.

Wheels to Meals in Eagle Lake

Under the sponsorship of the Haliburton County HomeSupport Services Sir Sam's Inn in Eagle Lake was the scene of a friendly gathering of Seniors in the area on Wed. June 11th.

"Wheels to Meals" is a program of seniors helping seniors — those having transportation helping to accommodate those needing a drive to the luncheon. Many who otherwise would not have an opportunity to socialize with their friends and neighbours now are able to get out and enjoy a meal together with others.

We wish to congratulate Liz and James Orr on their generosity in providing a valuable service to their community in participating in the program of "Wheels to meals for seniors. Sir Sam's Inn is such a wonderful place to enjoy an outing of this nature. We know, however, that it will not be possible for us to meet there in the summer, but are hoping we will be welcome again in the fall. During the summer, our convenor, Mrs. Marion Clift will be planning outings and picnics for us, and we thank her for her interest and help in arranging the details.

Please feel free to call the Haliburton County Home Support Services in the Municipal Building in Haliburton (457-2941) if you wish more information about the programs or if you wish to make suggestions to help the seniors of our area.

Special Enforcement Team patrol 6 areas of County

The Minden OPP Detachment's Special Enforcement Team, designed to curb carefree rowdiness and the disregard for the law in Haliburton County, was active on Friday and Saturday nights for approximately nine hours.

The 'Team' in old clothes and unmarked cars, visited Gooderham, Wilberforce, Harcourt, Haliburton, Stanhope and West Guilford areas.

During this period 11 charges were issued for violations of the Highway Traffic Act, three charges were issued for violations under the liquor licence act and three charges were laid under the Compulsory Automobile Insurance Act.

Canadian Comment

BY PETER WARD

Ottawa (SF) — There was a noticeable lack of effort for the federalist cause on the part of most provincial premiers in the early spring days of the great Quebec referendum debate.

Without question Saskatchewan's Allan Blakeney was the most effective provincial advocate of federalism, but then that is only as should be expected. Blakeney is also the most statesman-like provincial premier in Canada, and the one rated by a wide majority of federal-provincial observers as having more smarts than his peers.

Blakeney is running a two-edged attack against the separation ideas of Rene Levesque's Parti Quebecois, propagating positions which will aid the Claude Ryan federalist cause inside Quebec and also foster a better deal for western Canada.

For openers, Blakeney takes the growing western Canadian separatist movement very seriously. Western Canadians would support outright separation in only slightly lesser proportions than Quebecers, he claims. But when it comes to demanding a new deal from Ottawa, westerners are right in there with Quebecers.

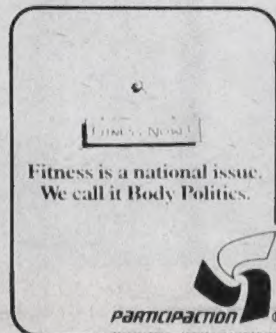

Sovereignty Association? Not for Quebec; not bloody likely. If they want to go it alone, good luck to them, but there will be none of this association business. That's how Blakeney sees things. A majority 'yes' vote in the Quebec referendum, according to Blakeney, would be seen by a significant portion of the west as a Quebec choice for separation, and that's what the west would be ready to accept, not some form of union which left Quebec with the best of both worlds.

Blakeney's crusade has been joined to a lesser degree by New Brunswick's Premier Richard Hatfield, who has the sincerity of conviction behind him, but not the national stature of Blakeney, or the effectiveness. If Quebecers hear what Blakeney is saying, and believe it, the Saskatchewan Premier's pro-federalist stumping tours across the country will have a considerable effect on the results of the referendum.

Blakeney should also be lighting warning signals in Ontario, because there's no question about it, the west won't put up with central Canadian dominance of the federal government any longer. They want more powers to match their growing economic muscle, and they'll get it, or the sentiment for separation in the west will grow.

Thank fortune the abilities of a man like Allan Blakeney are lined up on the federalist side of the great Canadian debate.

Al Hauff puts on "Pittstacular" airshow in Super Pitts

STANHOPE — Although the weather virtually destroyed this year's Stanhope Fly-In, the conditions didn't bother the spectacular performance of Al Hauff, one of the most polished and professional pilots on the air show scene today. Canada's top solo aviation entertainer started when he was seventeen, almost 23 years ago, flying Fleet Canucks in Edmonton, and on Sunday, performed one of the most spectacular aerobatic air show routines, in a long-body Pitts Special.

Canada's top solo entertainer

In 1957, Al won an Air Cadet Scholarship and started his flying training on Fleet Canucks at Edmonton, Alberta. Following a stint as a bush pilot in northern Alberta, he joined the R.C.A.F. in 1962. His five and a half years in the Canadian Military started on Chipmunks in Centralia, Ontario; Harvards in Penhold, Alberta, and the T-33 jets in Gimli, Manitoba. Then on to Bagotville, Quebec, for a stint on the Canucks: the venerable CF 100, all-weather fighters. Al's final three and a half years in the military were spent in Chatham, New Brunswick, flying the CF 101 Voodoo's. Al spent his summer off-duty days from the R.C.A.F. flying fire-bombing aircraft in New Brunswick.

Al joined Air Canada in 1967, and during his duties with the national airline, has logged time in DC 8's, 747's, and DC 9's. Today Al is a first officer on a DC 8.

In 1977 and 1978, Al Hauff's performances in the unlimited aerobatic category of competition won him the title of Canadian National Aerobatic Champion.

Al's interest in aerobatics began in his Edmonton days, flying tigermoths...the grand old pre-war bi-plane. He also has aerobatic time in Chipmunks; Harvards; the Belgian 'Stampe'; and while in Austria, flew the famous Czech 'Zlin'.

Al is a tall, lanky guy, and when the plans were published for the long-body Pitts Special, he started building. Three and a half years later, Al test flew the Super Pitts he flies today. His competition career began in 1976.

Al Hauff lives in Guelph, Ontario, with his wife, Marilyn, and two daughters, Paula and Lauren.

Outside . . . In The Air is the theme of this 'Pittstacular' air show, with Al Hauff. "Outside is the bi-word," says Al. "It's easier to see the ground, the crowd, and the show line when you're upsidedown in a Pitts!"

Straining against the shoulder straps, Canada's former National Aerobatic Champion executes one of the most precise and spectacular show sequences seen in North America today. As his 200 H.P. Super S-1 Pitts Special bi-plane growls through the sky, Al's first sequence is called: "Outside in the Blue"....lots of outside maneuvers and vertical lines, plus a breath-taking vertical torque roll, where the tiny Pitts slides - tail first - through the smoke, rolling on the way down

Next comes "The Bow Tie Ballet"...with the smoke lingering in the air, Al ties the smoke in knots with air show sequences that include the incredible and challenging rolling 360-degree turn, with a half Cuban eight on each end....nobody ties a bow so well!

Then it's the "Ribbon Finish" as Al fires up the wing tip smoke (a great opportunity for camera buffs). Beautiful ribbons are left in the sky....as wing tip canisters and the main smoke contrail etch the air. The finale is complete with a heart-stopping Lomcovak....the fantastic, tumbling maneuver the Pitts performs so well.

With the very low cloud cover on Sunday during the Fly-In, the real effect of the smoke in the Pitts routines could not be fully appreciated by the Fly-In crowd, however, on Saturday, July 12th, everyone will get another chance to see this spectacular Al Hauff aerobatic performance again. Hopefully the skies above will be clear-blue for the full impact of these very precise and challenging maneuvers, that Al Hauff has made world-famous over the past four years.

Hustlers, Woodville trade extra inning, 1-0 victories

Minden — The Rockcliffe Hotel Hustlers of the Tri County Fastball league are finding the going extremely tough this past week and a half. On Wednesday here in Minden, June 4th they ran up against a hot Lindsay Billings Mercury Junior hurler in Jeff Hutton and lost 1-0, as Hutton through his second no-hitter of the season. They then travelled to Lindsay on Sunday, June 8th and Blasted the 1979 defending league and playoff champions, Lindsay New Royal Hotel, 9-2.

There next game was Tuesday evening in Woodville against the Merchants and went ten innings, only to lose 1-0 on a seven hitter by Lorne Jackson. They returned to the freindly confines of Minden on Wednesday evening to tangle with Woodville again on Wednesday, and came through with an 8 inning 1-0 victory.

In Lindsay against the New Royal Hotel, Minden Hustlers took out the frustrations of losing to the Lindsay Juniors the night before, getting 12 hits against Don Timms in recording a 9-2 win.

Minden got off to a fast start, scoring four times in the first inning on a walk to Bob Johnston, a single by Barry Shaw, an RBI doubled by Bernie Nicholls, another RBI single by John Welch, followed by two run triple by Dave Dollo. Minden upped the count to 8-0 in the top of the fourth when Dollo singled, Harris Steele singled,,Johnston walked for the second time, loading the bases for Shaw who cracked a two run double to centre. Bernie Nicholls followed that with another two run double.

Lindsay started a modest comeback in the bottem of the inning, when J. Lytle doubled and scored on a double by Timms. Score 8-1. In the bottem of the 5 Lindsay's T. Disney tripled and scored on D. Hadley's double making the score 8-2.

Minden put the last run on the board in the 7th inning when Jack Snell singled and scored on a double by Welch.

In Woodville last Tuesday, Minden arrived with a makeshift lineup, as some of the players on the Tri County team decided they were going to play in the Haliburton Town league instead of with the Hustlers. This is unfortunate, because if they had shown up with the Hustlers, they would probably be 7-1 today instead of 6-2.

Craig Stamp was the Hustler pitcher of record in this 1-0 woodville win, losing his second 1-0 contest in a row. Lorne Jackson picked up the win for Woodville, when he won his own game in the bottem of the ninth, slamming a double to left field and scored on an RBI single by Rick Howell.

On Wednesday evening at the Minden Park, the Hustlers played supurb defensive and it paid off in a 1-0, eight inning victory. The Woodville team had many oppertunities to score throughout the contest however, he Hustlers came up with one defensive gem after another until they finally got the run that gave them he win.

Bob Johnson opened the bottem of the eighth inning with a single, Dwight Sisson followed with a per-

Senior Citizen's Week in Ontario: June 15 - 21

Alfred Ebsen figures 100 is a good age to retire.

"That's 29 years from now," said the 71-year-old calligrapher from Willowdale, Ontario. "I'm just too busy. Retirement is the farthest thing from my mind. I've still got goals to reach, people to meet and places to see before I throw in the towel."

Mr. Ebsen is a good example of the hundreds of thousands of Ontarians who will be celebrating Senior Citizens' Week this year from June 15 to 21.

A non-smoker, non-drinker, who sails and plays tennis to help keep himself fit, Mr. Ebsen believes elderly people should keep active -- mentally and physically -- to get the most out of life.

Coincidentally, that too, in essence, is this year's theme chosen by the Ministry of Community and Social Services for this tenth annual celebration which encourages and challenges all seniors in Ontario to be "at the centre of activity in your community."

Alfred Ebsen, a 71-year-old calligrapher, pens a special poster for Senior Citizen's Week.

ity". It is "An Invitation to Participate" -- to get involved whether it is joining an elderly persons' centre, serving on boards or committees, or through other civic responsibilities and community activities.

Mr. Ebsen is one of these involved persons. There just aren't enough hours in the day for him. He greets each new dawn at 6 a.m. and it's not unusual for him to chalk up 14 hours a day working in his studio.

Ideally Ebsen would like to close shop for six months or a year to finish a book he began writing on developing a hand-writing system, which can be used for business design, in one's personal life or as a hobby.

Ebsen recalls using his talented hand to woo his Scottish-born wife, Irene, during their courtship days, with poetry and love letters. "She still has every one of them," he beamed a wide smile.

Mr. Ebsen has contributed much to the quality of life in Ontario as have approximately 700,000 other elderly persons in the province who will be marking this special week this month. Co-sponsoring this event is the Senior Centres' Association of Ontario.

Association of Ontario.

A bilingual poster has been designed depicting a selection of the many talents and interests of seniors in Ontario. It emphasizes the fact that Senior Citizens' Week provides a multitude of opportunities for seniors to exchange ideas, develop new interests, learn additional skills and make new friendships.

A wide variety of activities will be featured in communities across Ontario for young and old to enjoy. During this week, seniors will speak about aging, hobbies and various interests at schools, churches and synagogues. They will also celebrate the week by attending such diversified events as garden parties, hobby and fashion shows, keep fit demonstrations, tours, music festivals, wine and cheese parties and pancake feasts.

Seniors who participate in activities during this week have much to gain, and it is hoped that the enthusiasm and benefits derived from this special week will extend throughout the entire year.

Mainstream Canada

Co-operation is the key

By W. Roger Worth

What does Quebec want? For that matter, what does Alberta want, or Newfoundland, or British Columbia, or Ontario?

If the views of hard-nosed provincial politicians are any barometer, one thing is eminently clear: most of the provinces want more control over their own affairs.

The only way to increase provincial autonomy, of course, is to dilute the power of the federal government.

Many times it is difficult to fault the provincial politicians.

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

Quebec, for example, is deeply concerned (and rightly so) about survival of the French language and culture in Canada, as well as economic matters. Politicians in the energy-producing provinces believe it is their job to fight for the highest possible price for the commodity.

Newfoundland claims the rights to offshore minerals and the fishery, industrialized Ontario wants policies that will support its big manufacturing sector, and British Columbia — like the other Western provinces — is seeking better representation in the Senate and the highest court in the land.

The list of federal-provincial irritants seems endless.

Confrontation has become the norm in Canada. The amount of co-operation that had existed between the two levels of government in earlier times has plummeted, and the country has suffered.

Perhaps it is time for the politicians to return the word "co-operation" to the federal-provincial vocabulary, tapping the public goodwill in all parts of Canada to provide solutions to very real problems.

Somehow, a political deal must be worked out that will satisfy at least some provincial aspirations, at the same time allowing Ottawa enough power to effectively manage the economy and redistribute the nation's wealth to maintain living standards in the poorer regions.

Canadians deserve a real effort to find political solutions that will halt the endless federal-provincial battles that are playing a large role in tearing the country apart.

It's fifty cents more a night to camp in provincial parks

Natural Resources Minister James Auld announced today that in an effort to keep fees in their traditional proportion to operating costs, effective Monday, June 16, there will be an increase of 50 cents a day in camping fees in provincial parks.

The Minister said the day-use vehicle entry fee will remain at $2.00.

At the new rates, campers at provincial parks will pay $5.50 a night at campgrounds without comfort stations, $6.00 a night at campgrounds with comfort stations, and $7.50 a night for campsites serviced with electricity.

"An increase in camping fees is necessary because of the rising costs of operating provincial parks," Mr. Auld said.

In the past few years it had been necessary to restrict camping before and after the peak summer months due to escalating costs. Beginning Labour Day this year, more parks will now remain open with limited facilities and will charge a reduced rate — $3.00 for a regular campsite and $4.00 for a campsite with electricity.

Fire-death risk reduced by detectors in OHC units

Smoke detectors installed in Ontario Housing Corporation's 83,000 units may have saved lives in 64 of the 159 reported fires in 1979, according to OHC general manager Douglas Beesley.

OHC launched the first such large scale installation of smoke detectors in North America in August, 1974, when it started to equip its 63,000 existing units with the devices. The 20,000 new units built since then have had smoke detectors installed during construction.

"Our three-year program to install smoke detectors in all dwelling units owned by OHC was completed in 1977.

We believe it was the most extensive installation of smoke detectors in residential buildings by any one agency in North America," said Beesley.

"While it is not possible to say definitely that the detectors saved lives, there is every indication that without the warnings, the casualties could have been greater," said Beesley. "We are sure that potential property losses were reduced because tenants are given early warnings by the detectors."

Eight deaths were recorded in OHC units last year. Four of the victims — a man, woman and two children — were asphyxiated when they were overcome by fumes while they were sleeping. The fire, which started in the kitchen, burned itself out.

Eighty-one per cent of the fires occurred in family housing units with the balance in senior citizen accommodation. Smoke detectors gave the first alert in 84 of the 159 reported fires. In 37 of the 84 fires, the occupants were home and awake when the smoke detectors sounded.

Fires are more likely to occur in the kitchen than elsewhere in a home. The kitchen was the source in 42 of the reported fires, with the bedroom, livingroom or basement following closely.

Children playing with matches or lighters caused 50 per cent of the worst fires. Twenty-seven fires were started by hot grease, four originated in instant-on television sets and another two were started by electric can openers. Careless smoking was a common cause of many fires.

As part of OHC's regular maintenance program, all smoke detectors are cleaned and tested annually under a computer-controlled program.

city. By this Christmas, campers will be able to purchase an annual camping pass for a flat rate for the 1981 season. If the camper chooses a site serviced with electricity, there will be an additional charge of $1.50 a night.

One more may be added to party in moose hunting regulation change

The regulations for moose hunting in a party have been changed from "two persons" to "two or three persons," Natural Resources Minister James Auld announced today.

The Minister explained that the change was made in response to concerns expressed by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters as well as the general public.

"The OFAH has been working hard on behalf of Ontario's sportsmen to improve the management of moose and other wildlife and were deeply concerned about the moose regulations announced earlier," he said.

The new regulations mean that two or three persons may hunt together but when moose is killed by a person hunting in a party, two persons must immediately attach the seal provided with their licences.

As announced by Mr. Auld on April 1, 1980, once the seals are securely attached through the tender on one of the hind legs, the corresponding moose licences become invalid.

Mr. Auld said that the change will meet recent objections of some moose hunters, and still help to reduce the moose harvest.

He said restrictive measures are needed to rehabilitate moose populations because herds have declined from 125,000 animals in 1968 to 80,000 in 1980, a decrease of 35 per cent.

"Moose numbers in most areas are less than the habitat can support, and this has reduced both viewing and hunting opportunities and economic benefits. Our immediate objective is to lower the number of animals taken," the Minister said.

"The development of a comprehensive moose management policy and plan scheduled for implementation in 1981, is progressing well," Mr. Auld added.

New course mandatory for first-time trappers

As of July 1, 1980 it will be mandatory for first-time trappers residing in Ontario's eastern, central and Algonquin regions to pass a trapper education course before they are eligible for a licence. The course consists of 10 one-night sessions and a field trip.

It is primarily designed to teach human trapping methods and proper pelt handling and will be given by qualified instructors at community colleges and Ministry of Agriculture and Food facilities.

Natural Resources Minister James Auld announced today the regulations will apply throughout the province in 1981.

"My Ministry, in co-operation with the Ontario Trappers Association, has held voluntary trapper education workshops since 1969, but this is the first year a course will be compulsory," Mr. Auld said.

"The course will significantly upgrade trapping methods and enhance our fur management program. And it will improve the efficiency of a valuable and long-established industry which generated $21 million to Ontario trappers in 1979 and substantially benefitted the province's economy," he added.

New trappers can obtain information about the course from any of the Ministry's district offices or from the Wildlife Branch at Queen's Park, Toronto.

The rich Green and Gold Sauce makes these salmon steaks a special dish which is sure to win you compliments.

Salmon with gold and green sauce

Grilled salmon steaks covered with mellow Holland cheese sauce makes an elegant entree.

The rich, smooth, cheese sauce can be used with a variety of foods. Try it with chicken breasts, broccoli, asparagus, cauliflower or toast triangles.

4 1 inch thick salmon steaks (2 cm)

1 tbsp. melted butter 15 mL

Place salmon steaks on greased broiler pan. Brush with half the melted butter. Broil 2 to 3 inches (4 to 8 cm) from source of heat for 5 minutes; turn, brush with remaining butter and broil 5 minutes longer. Remove to warm platter.

Gold and Green Sauce:

3 tbsp. butter 45 mL
3 tbsp. all-purpose flour 45 mL
½ tsp. curry powder 2 mL
½ tsp. salt 2 mL
¼ tsp. dry mustard 1 mL
1/8 tsp. pepper 0.5 mL
1½ cups milk 375 mL
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce 5 mL

1½ cups shredded imported Holland Edam or Gouda cheese 375 mL
1 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley or dill 15 mL

Melt butter in heavy-bottomed saucepan; stir in flour, curry powder, salt, dry mustard and pepper. Cook and stir constantly until bubbling. Stir in milk and Worcestershire sauce; continue to cook and stir until sauce boils. Continue stirring for one minute. Remove from heat; immediately stir in cheese; continue to stir until cheese melts and sauce is smooth. Stir in chopped parsley or dill. Pour sauce over broiled salmon. Serve at once.

Ask Alma

Dear Alma:

My wife has a good job, makes a good salary and considers it "her money." I never see a nickel of it. The bills she runs up on our charge accounts, however, she defines as "ours." My paycheck can't be stretched enough to meet her expensive tastes and I feel like I'm drowning. Please help. I'm ready to throw in our $50 designer towel. — B.T.

Dear B.T.:

A few months ago I advised a teenager to pay for his own junk food "pig-outs" because his parents responsibility to provide food only included three meals per day.

The same principle applies here. If your wife's expenditures exceed your budget, they have to be covered with her paycheck. This is mandatory for your financial survival.

Close all charge accounts and pay for all purchases with cash or check.

Give her a set sum monthly to spend as she chooses. She'll either have to buy less or kick in some of "her" money.

Dear Jenny:

You asked for my two cents worth, so here it is. If the sight of the melting chocolate chips and Ameri-

Dear Alma:

I am a recently separated woman who is very much interested in finding male companionship. I am invited to a social function where a male escort would be a pleasant bonus. There is someone whom I know casually who is also newly separated.

Most important, quit your nagging and gagging routine. It's hubby's palate, stomach, breakfast and option.

Dear L.I.P.:

It's easy. Pick up the telephone and invite him to be your date for the party. That's perfectly acceptable behavior these days. If you don't believe me, watch the Harvey's Bristol Cream ad on T.V.

How does one go about finding out if he is also interested in finding companionship? — Lonely in Potomac
